

Bio Rebekah Kowalski

Rebekah Kowalski is Principal Consultant, Strategic Workforce Consulting for Right Management. In this role, she is the lead subject matter expert for the practice globally and a member of the Global Center of Excellence.

A key focus for Rebekah is on helping clients understand how workforce supply and demand forces are increasingly putting their business strategies at risk, and framing practical options for ensuring they have the talent they need in the right place, at the right time, and at the right cost. Rebekah is also researching the convergence of government, education, employers, and individuals in driving local and global market competitiveness.

Prior to Right Management, Rebekah spent 9 years with ManpowerGroup, where she developed both the US and Global Solutions units and led the teams responsible for working with ManpowerGroup's most strategically significant clients, architecting their global workforce strategy and delivery models. Rebekah also developed ManpowerGroup's first global, cross-brand sales development program.

Rebekah is a ongoing contributor and adviser to the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee's Center for the Study of the Workplace and a member of multiple research consortia, including Future of Work (London School of Business), Moxie Insight, and Boostzone